

HAMPER PROGRESS no. 11 Baydon to Swindon

Alex writes: "Sue and I met Peter and Marilyn at The Pierre Simonet Building. Once upon a time there was a man called James James Bond, whose film "The World Is Not Enough" (1999) also starred this building, now owned by Vygon. As in James Bond, Vygon also has top people in Howard and Yvonne (their Bond & Money Penny). They were very kind and helpful in setting up our photo shoot that day, thank you."

"Our Morris RHY 688G "Henry" has been in the family for the last 11 years. Bought from a lady who used the car as everyday transport while a School Inspector in Reading, Henry has had a number of upgrades for safety and comfort including disc brakes, servo assisted steering and modern seats. We participated in The Morris Minor 5 Capitals Tour 2010, sponsoring The British Heart Foundation."

The Belgian engineer Pierre Simonet was the founder of Vygon and a pioneer of single-use medical devices. The building was originally opened by the Queen in 1998 and occupied by Motorola.
