

NWMMOC

Simon & Gill in India

This was a lunch stop at Samode Palace in Rajasthan. We found this old Moggy that was part of a collection held by one of the many Indian Maharajas. Many of the old colonial palaces in Northern India became luxury hotels as the Maharajas looked to replace the lifestyle they enjoyed under British rule. This was during a 16 night tour of the region. We were on a small group tour of just 7 travellers and visited Delhi, Jaipur, Ranthambore National Park, Jodhpur, Roget, Udaipur, Mumbai. In addition to the surprise find of the 'Moggy' in the Maharaja's collection ... we also saw a rare wild tiger!

Simon & Gill Rawlinson